

Cotton trials at Murgon with Guano Gold Custom Blends proving excellent returns.....

Looking across the paddock, to and across the furrows, the plants are about 4 to 5 foot high. This is a close up of how the majority of the balls looked. – Reports David Allen Agronomist from PRIMAC ELDERS IN MURGON,QLD. On farm at Mike Stewarts property in Murgon, Qld. This ertra large ball has heaps of cotton hanging out. Mike Stewart says this is how much of the cotton goes on the Darling downs and is rare here. But I found some easily.

Looking out the windscreen up the field whilst picking. Mike Stewart was saying that this field was going at least 3.5 bales to the acre. He said "You're in a pretty good crop when you go up and back and the picker is chocker block on 400m rows." The next field over the pickers were only doing one and a half runs then full. He was also saying that there was a fair bit of insect damage that was the planes fault which has impacted on yield. He was happy though.

The first picture is a close up of the cotton going into the picker. Second picture is of a plant on the end of one of the rows.

Looking across the field on this block that was going at least 4 bales to the acre- very impressive says Mike Stewart, cotton grower from Murgon
